THE NOTE ELEGANT.

The Careful Woman Should Be Very Particular in Her Correspondence.

It takes a poet or a woman to condense into the few brief sentences of the conventional note the comprehensive, graceful message of congratulation or condolence, the elegant acceptance of invitation, or the exquisite refusal, which never offends. Some one has called woman "the genius of epistolary communication," and indeed the gift of graceful letter writing is one peculiar to women, handed down from mother to daughter through the mystery of heredity. Certain regulations govern these apparently spontaneous productions, even as a Browning sonnet in all its mysticism conforms to the requirements of verse structure. In the first place the note elegant is not written upon the convenient "correspondence card," but upon a small sheet of thick cream paper, either glazed or rough, according as the writer's taste inclines. The sheet has at the top the street and number of the lady's address in plain letters, the name of her country home, or the town in which she lives, if it is so small as to be without numbered houses. The sheet is folded once and inclosed in a square envelope, and is more elegant and ceremonial if sealed with wax.

As to the chirography, that which is most illegible is most stylish. If a woman cannot correct her unfortunate habit of writing so that people can read it in any other way she uses a quill pen, which generally brings about the desired result. The great feature of the stylish hand is that it has no curves, but is sharply pointed and the letters are closely crowded together. The reason why this style of writing is considered elegant is that it cannot from its formation be written hastily. Any evidence of haste is considered inelegant, whether it manifests itself in a careless toilet or in a careless note. The note begins on the first page, skips to the fourth, and finishes up by being written across the sheet on the inside pages. This is one of the things it is well for a man to remember, for sometimes the words of the fourth page are not read at all, as the signature is on the third and the complications arise thereby.

One thing for a woman to remember is that she can never afford to write a careless note, for some one is certain to see it and judge her by it just as she is sure to meet the man for whose opinion she most cares when she goes out in her old bonnet.

The woman who wrote in her haste upon her visiting card, "Come with pleasure," in answer to a dinner invitation, found the gates of society closed against her ever afterward as one too busy or too brief for civility. Abbreviations and numerals are as bad form in the note elegant as a derby hat with a dress suit.—New York Sun.

Pretty Fancy Dress Costumes for Children.
At a recent children's fancy dress party given in London many pretty flower costumes were worn that some mother may find suggestive for a child's costume in the future. A poppy dress had the skirt cut to represent overlapping petals of the flower, with a large single blossom jauntily set on the head, like a little cap. Other flowers represented were pansies, wild roses, sunflowers, daisies, sweet peas, lilies of the valley, the mistletoe and the lark. The finer flowers were dressed in little slips of silk covered with the blossoms, or in accordance plaited dresses ornamented with fringes, streamers and festoons of flowers.

A golden haired, blue eyed boy of less than six summers was arrayed as Cupid in a short Greek chiton of fine white wool, bordered with Roman key embroidery done in pale blue. His shoes and stockings were of flesh color, his hair garlanded with pink roses and a golden arrow in his hand.

A harebell, quite as charming, was in a little robe of pale blue leaves, dropping over an underpetticoat of blue chiffon. With the harebell marched "Pink Whittington" in rose pink velvet coat, drab hat and tights, with a white cat under his arm. After them came two little sisters dressed as white butterflies, with white dresses of creamy tissue paper dotted with gold, and wings of butterflies on shoulders, butterfly hats and fans.—New York Post.

The Emma Abbott Monument.

Work is well advanced on the Emma Abbott monument in Oak Grove cemetery, at Gloucester, Mass. It is now raised to a height of about forty-five feet, fifteen more feet remaining to be set in position before the structure is completed. No cement is used, the setting being in lead. The inscription on a huge block of granite is: "In loving memory of Eugene Wetherell. He giveth his beloved sleep." The receptacle for the ashes of the dead songstress is ready, and after the urn containing them is placed therein a heavy slab of Quincy granite, composing the floor, will be placed in position, securely sealing its contents. The total cost of the monument is $60,000, which is said to make it the most expensive piece of private work of the kind in the United States. It has required the labor of forty men for a year to complete the work.—Exchange.

Mrs. Modjeska's Collection.

Mrs. Modjeska is said to be proficient in half a dozen languages, including some of the difficult tongues of eastern Europe. She is making a large collection of the works of the writers of the Elizabethan period, and is a constant reader of the writings of Shakespeare's contemporaries, as well as a tireless student of the great dramatist.

One Sign of Whooping Cough.

A Sad Leap Year Story.

Leap year is with us once more, and if reports are true a number of Chicago's young ladies have already proceeded to make the most of it. However, there is one story circulated which proves that the course of true love does not run smooth even when directed by the members of the sex that is supposed to know most about it.

"Let me tell you a story about my friend 'Lill,'" said one of Englewood's fairest daughters. "I don't suppose I ought to tell it, but the incident is one that most men who have tried lovemaking will know how to appreciate. Lill's beau, who came from Boston a year ago, had been paying attention to her for months and calling on her about two nights a week.

"But he seemed to be so bashful and so afraid of coming to the point that she finally grew desperate and said to me: 'You just wait till leap year comes and I'll teach that bashful young man a lesson. Such diffidence and such delay are wholly inexcusable.'

"Well, New Year's came and the young man called. I expected Lill to come down to my house the next morning to tell me how she had happily settled matters, but she didn't come, so I called on her in the afternoon. She appeared to be indispensed and melancholy.

"What's the matter? I asked.

"Her eyes filled with tears, and after a little cry she said:

"I took him by the hand and said to him: 'Now, my boy, I'll show you how we Chicago women do things. Will you avail yourself of this opportunity to become my promised husband?' And he—here she sobbed—'oh, the brute! he said, 'I can't, for I'm already engaged to a girl in Boston.'"

"And what did you say then?" I asked sympathetically.

"Her eyes flashed as she replied, 'I said to him, 'Mr. Falsette, there's the door, and please be very quick about it, too.'"

Steals Ten or Twenty Dollars at a Time.

There is a man over on the north side who is slowly but steadily growing rich at the expense of the small storekeepers. He is a thief, but he is a successful one, and is possessed of at least a rudimentary idea of humor. For some weeks he has been making a good income by asking for change for a ten or a twenty dollar bill and then walking off with the bill as well as the change. He is a good looking man and well dressed, but the police are unable to find him.

He walked into a bakery at 39 Wells street, owned by L. Vizona. He was in his shirt sleeves, and in his hand carried a letter which was addressed "P. H. Rear, 243 Hubbard street, Milwaukee." Laying the letter down so that the address would show he produced a handful of change and asked if he could get a ten dollar bill in place of it, saying in explanation that he wanted to send ten dollars to a friend in Milwaukee and did not want to make his letter too heavy. Mrs. Vizona saw the letter, and as it seemed to bear out his story, produced the ten dollar bill.

The stranger took the bill, and shoving it and the change in his pocket, skipped out the door and ran down Locust street. Mrs. Vizona shouted until she was hoarse, but the man got away. Then she saw the letter, which was still lying on the counter. It was unsealed and she opened it. Inside was a part of a sheet of note paper and on it was written, "This is what you might have expected." Mrs. Vizona still has the letter, but the fellow has her ten dollars. As there was an unused stamp on the letter she only loses $9.98.—Chicago Herald.

No Place to Live.

There has been some growing because in Oregon we have had twenty-six rainy days during the past month. People who feel inclined to resent this should go over to Japan and "settle." It is true, where during thirty days lately they have had 1,757 earthquake shocks. This is one every half hour and a few shocks over. Most people will agree that this is a very shocking state of affairs, and must have a very deleterious effect on the dairying industry, as under such circumstances it would be impossible for cream to rise.

It is impossible to settle coffee there with either fishskin or egg shells, and the grounds have to be held down by hydraulic pressure. When one reads of blizzards and la grippe on one hand and perpetual earthquakes on the other, he can thank his stars that he lives in Oregon, where the early and the later rains fall copiously and the clouds drop their garnered treasures down promiscuously and where crops never fail.—Portland Oregonian.

Queer Place for a Marriage Ceremony.

Mary Backner and W. B. Whitney called at the residence of Magistrate Brownfield Friday night. They were very anxious to be married, and that, too, in a hurry. It was nearly midnight, and the magistrate was in bed. They said they wanted to catch a train that left in an hour, but it would take some time to dress, and the magistrate hit upon a novel plan. The couple were invited to his bedroom, the necessary papers were drawn up, and while lying on his couch the marriage ceremony was performed.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Swiss Watchmakers to Exhibit.

The watchmakers of Switzerland, at a recent convention in Berne, decided to make an exhibit at Chicago of their finest and costliest watches, but not to attempt any competition with American manufacturers in cheaper grades. They have applied to the Swiss council for financial and other aid to enable them to make a creditable exhibit.

Using the Rhine for Power.

It is said that a syndicate of Swiss and English capitalists has been formed to utilize a part of the falls of the Rhine at Laufenburg for the generation of electric energy. The water will be led to turbine wheels and 7,000 horse power will be developed.—New York Times.

NEVADA BUSINESS
ADVERTISEMENT IN THE DAILY AND WEEKLY JOURNAL. A large business in Nevada. Advertise in the JOURNAL.

Representative Andrews of Massachusetts has introduced a bill "to exclude political influence in the employment of laborers under authority of the United States." The bill affects about 121,000 persons, and it provides that they shall be appointed or employed without regard to political considerations. The bill does not require certifications through the Civil Service Commission, its only purpose being to compel the appointment of properly qualified persons in the order of their application without the delay caused by cumbersome machinery.

Andrews, who made an elaborate report in favor of the bill, says there are 173,760 employees in the Executive Department of the Government, only 30,726 of whom are subject to competitive examination, and his bill proposes a wide extension and simplification of the non-partisan system at much less cost than heretofore. It is not intended to require competitive examinations for a scholastic test of laborers, but it is intended that the rules shall simply provide for the physical fitness and good character of the applicant.

At present a man, however well qualified, cannot get the position of laborer in any business conducted by the United States unless he has a political pull. He must belong to the party in power, that is, be owned by the bosses so far as his vote is concerned. It will not do for him, if he wishes to work for the United States, to assert his manhood and declare that he will exercise the right of suffrage as a free man by voting for whom he pleases. The Andrews bill is intended to prevent this abuse of political power by those in power, and to guarantee to every laborer in the employ of the United States the right to exercise the prerogative of a citizen of the United States.

THE COMSTOCK TODAY.

The Territorial Enterprise, the Comstock today, which abandoned the silver eight months ago, thinks the JOURNAL is afraid of Mr. Newlands, but it assigns no reason for so thinking. It is difficult to understand why anybody in Nevada should be afraid of Mr. Newlands. The gentleman, during the time he resided in the State, showed no disposition to act the part of a ruffian or desperado. The JOURNAL never heard of his frightening anybody or attempting to do so by threats or otherwise, and when he last visited Nevada, a year ago or thereabouts, he was apparently as mild a mannered millionaire as could be found on the coast. Will the syndicate Enterprise endeavor to explain why it thinks the JOURNAL should be afraid of Mr. Newlands? It is true he has wealth, but as yet ordinary individuals have rights in the country, which even millionaires must respect. The JOURNAL has not knowingly done anything that is in any way calculated to incur the enmity of Mr. Newlands. Its relations with him have been amiable and there is no reason why they should not continue so. If, as the syndicate Enterprise, he is a candidate for Congress, that is a privilege which is as much every American citizen. Men who have lived in Nevada since the discovery of the Comstock can aspire to that position as well as those who are constructively citizens of the State. There is no law to prevent Mr. Newlands from being a candidate for any office in the State, provided he returns to the State in time to acquire an actual, not a constructive, residence in the State by next November. The obsequious Comstock organ ought to know that, for doubtless Mr. Newlands is fully aware of it.

It is announced from Philadelphia that the great sugar deal which has kept speculators guessing for some weeks past, is practically consummated. The Franklin refinery, E. C. Knight & Co's. refinery, and the Claus Spreckles refinery are now under the control of the American Sugar Refinery Company, commonly known as the Sugar Trust, which now has absolute control of the entire sugar refining industry of the country. Spreckles recently asserted that he would never sell to the trust but it appears that he has succumbed to the combination.

The debate on the free coinage bill was opened yesterday in the House of Representatives by Bland, who said that the bill provides that gold and silver shall be equal at the mints, as the wise founders of the Government just one hundred years ago decided they should be. Taylor of Illinois, as a Republican, and representative of the only party opposed to free coinage, claimed the right to open the debate in opposition to the bill, but Williams, who presented the views of the minority of the Coinage Committee, was accorded the privilege.

Representative Roger Q. Mills of Texas was elected United States Senator from that State yesterday for six years from the 4th of March, 1893. Mr. Mills was elected to the Forty-third Congress, and has been re-elected to each succeeding Congress since. He is the author of what was known as the Mills bill, which put wool instead of sugar on the free list. He is a forcible and logical speaker and one of the ablest debaters in Congress.

According to the Comstock Today and the Reno Echo, Hon. Francis G. Newlands is to be a candidate for Congress on a free coinage platform. Mr. Newlands, it is said, left the Democratic party when Cleveland was President because he believed it was opposed to free coinage, and now, it seems, he leaves the Republican party and declares for free coinage for the same cause.

The conductors and brakemen on the Canadian Pacific have struck, and serious disturbances are occurring. The strikers have cut trains in sections, stove in draw-heads, thrown away coupling pins and fired at the new train men.

FREE COINAGE IN CONGRESS.

DEBATE ON THE BLAND BILL.

Gold and Silver Shall Be Equal At the Mints.

Arrival of the Yorktown From Chili—Railroads Stashing Rates—A Jury Ignores Its Instructions.

Free Coinage in Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The debate on the silver question was opened to-day by Chairman Bland of the Coinage Committee. A point of order was raised against the bill on the ground that it involved expenditure by the Treasury, was decided by the Speaker not well taken, as the bill made no specific appropriation.

The galleries were crowded when Bland said:

WHAT THE FOUNDERS OF THE GOVERNMENT DID.

"This bill proposes to go back one hundred years in the matter of coinage. It was just a hundred years ago that the wise founders of this Government adopted a double standard. They provided for the coinage of gold and silver without limit at the Mints of the United States; that silver should be coined the same as gold and should have the advantages and the same recognition. Silver dollars should consist of 371.04 grains of silver, precisely what a dollar of silver called for in this bill. This bill provides that gold and silver shall be coined at a ratio fixed by Act 37, called 'ratio of 16 to 1,' or more exactly, its 15.98 to 1. This bill provides that gold and silver shall be equal at the mints. [Applause.] In order that this equality should be preserved it is necessary that silver should be put on the same plane in regard to the issue of certificates at the mint as gold."

COST OF COINAGE.

Bland here sent to the clerk's desk a letter from the Director of the Mint, stating that the cost of the coinage of silver would be about a cent and a half per dollar and that $45,000,000 could be coined every year. Continuing, Bland stated that while the bill placed gold and silver on an equality in the matter of the issue of coin notes and in their deposit at the mints, it also maintained the equality by providing that when coin notes should be presented for redemption the Government should be free to redeem them in either gold or silver as it might prefer. Thus coin notes issued on the deposit of gold bullion might be redeemed in silver, or coin notes issued on a deposit of silver might be redeemed in gold, as the Treasury might prefer.

AN AMENDMENT.

In the course of his argument Bland stated he would propose later an amendment to that portion of the bill providing that coin notes shall be issued as rapidly as the mints found it practicable to coin the bullion. In arguing for greater volume of money, Bland said that he would admit that the refined system of credits which had grown up in the country does to a certain extent, economize the use of money, but in the end a day for the payment of these obligations always came, and then we must have money. When we passed a bill for refunding the National debt, the National banks of the United States surrendered $18,000,000 into the National Treasury as a threat made for the purpose of inducing a veto from the President, a threat which effected its purpose, and the result of this withdrawal of $18,000,000 from circulation put interest up in New York at the rate of one cent a day. Notes and bonds, not money, are their conveniences.

THE WHOLE FIGHT.

Over this issue is between the capitalists who demand interest and the people who demand money instead of interest. [Great Applause.]

He denounced the periodic attempts made for international agreements every time the free coinage of silver was proposed. Are we to be shackled here by the apathy of the governments of other nations? Is our financial system to be regulated, not by our own ideas of justice and our own conveniences but by the conveniences of other nations? [Applause.]

The moment this great Government declares for the free coinage of silver, other commercial nations, too, will solve that question. Self-interest will compel them to do so. The restoration of silver here means its restoration everywhere in the world over. [Applause.] Gold and silver have been the servants of civilization since civilization began. They are twin brothers, and when you sever the ligature both are dead. Before gold can leave this country there must be some other form of money to take its place, for the moment you restore silver, if gold is taken from circulation, prices will go down in proportion, and that necessitates money from abroad to purchase commodities here that go down because of the contraction of money.

LET SILVER BE COINED.

Once and see what the result will be then. You bring him to the level of this country; to the level of silver, where he ought to be. [Applause.] Let us remember that as a rule when money is plentiful prices are good. You may have to pay a lit's more, but labor, after all, is only work. Wall street to-day is demonstrating that the labor of the wheat and cotton bill remunerates them all. [Applause.]

Bland declared the action of the Government of the United States on the silver question has been an invitation to Europe to go upon the gold standard. The last Congress passed an Act to purchase four and a half millions of silver monthly. In the interest of silver, he opposed that bill, said the gentlemen were deceiving themselves and the country and silver could not be brought to par in any such manner.

The law used bullion as mere dead capital in the Treasury which might as well be at the bottom of the Potomac.

In conclusion Bland said: "I appeal to the gentlemen on the floor to lay aside every idea of party expediency, every idea but that which is right and just and cast their votes according to the dictates of their consciences and the pledges they made to the great productive masses of this country. If they do the bill is safe; the cause is won." [Applause.]

At the conclusion of Bland's speech Taylor of Illinois (Republican), claimed the right to open the debate in opposition, as representing the only party opposed to free coinage. Williams, however, was accorded the privilege by the Speaker because he had presented the views of the minority.

GOLD ARGUMENT.

"I am acting," said Williams, "in behalf of a cause which, as far as I know, knows no party, but is a mere question of patriotism on both sides." Continuing Williams said: "Many members of the House would feel obliged to vote for free coinage, although they did not believe in it, because their constituents so instructed them. He believed an appreciating standard better than a fluctuating standard, and better than a constantly falling standard. It had been assured that as we had free coinage of silver before 1873 without disastrous result, why should disaster now follow this bill?"

He desired to remind the American people that the monetary conditions of the world were entirely changed since 1873, and those conditions were now beyond our control. Gold is the standard of nearly all the nations in Europe, and when we declare for the free coinage of silver where will gold go? It will go to a premium, and a premium upon gold is a discount upon silver. The rest of the world will fix a depreciation upon silver according to the markets of the world and our standard will then be seventy cents to the dollar. That means repudiation; it means throwing this country into dishonor for the settlement of every debt contracted upon our present gold basis.

In conclusion Williams presented the substituted bill of the minority providing for an international monetary conference. Harter said since 1873 we have minted an average of over $40,000,000 per year. Under the Bland bill this would cease and free coinage would drive out our gold and leave what remained as merchandise, as wheat, corn and cotton are. Unlimited coinage of gold and silver on a ratio of 16 to 1 would drive out gold because it would undervalue it. Gold sells in all parts of the world for 22.98 times its weight in silver, and if under free coinage we only give it a value of 16, all human experience shows we would have no gold in circulation. This bill is not free coinage; it is a pure and simple bill to compel the people of the United States to buy the entire product of the most prosperous and flourishing interest, small in number, of its members but very rich, as a price which gives them on the cost of production a bounty of over 143 per cent. It is further proposed to make the United States virtually the purchaser of all the silver produced in the world, and at 129 cents per ounce, while much of it costs not over thirty-seven cents per ounce. I submit that an equally mad proposition never secured the assent of any legislative body in the world. But for this discussion we would be getting from Europe fifteen or twenty millions of gold a month. Instead of this, alarmed and excited, Europe is sending back our stocks and securities by the steam.

Raynor of Maryland (Democrat) also argued against the bill. Tracy of New York at this point announced the election of Roger Q. Mills as United States Senator from Texas. The anti-free coinage men were particularly enthusiastic in applause, as they regard Mills opposed to the Bland bill. Abner Taylor of Illinois then took the floor and offered an amendment that all pensions be paid in gold. In speaking of the bill he said he represented only the party opposed to this measure—the Republican party. He admired the Democratic party for the facility with which it got on both sides of the question. When the bill reaches the Senate and is up for vote, the gentleman who would probably be nominated in Chicago (Hill) would conveniently be in the cloak room or out on an excursion. [Laughter.] Then the Democratic party would straddle the question. The bill would enable the wealthy class to pay laborers seventy cents' worth of silver for a dollar's worth of toil.

Hopkins of Illinois opposed the bill. Compton of Maryland offered an amendment to restrict the free coinage of silver to that produced in the United States. Epes of Virginia supported the bill. He asserted that there had been a long series of oppressive financial Acts, of which the worst was the demonetization of silver.

Crawford of South Carolina spoke in support of the bill and Stevens of Massachusetts, Democrat, recorded against it in the name of his constituents, a most emphatic protest. Pending the conclusion of his remarks, the House took a recess until 7:30. Representative Stevens was not present to finish his speech when the House reassembled in the evening.

O'Donnell of Michigan, Covert and Post of Illinois, spoke against the bill, and Wadock, Bowers, Winn and Lewis of Mississippi supported the measure. Adjourned.

The Yorktown Arrives From Chili. SAN DIEGO, March 22.—The cruiser Yorktown entered the harbor and cast anchor at noon, having come direct to San Diego from Callao, which port she left March 4th. She will sail again for San Francisco to-morrow at three. Commander Evans states that the Boston is also on the way up, but is stopping at all Central American and Mexican ports and is expected to arrive here within five or six days. Captain Evans also reported that the French man-of-war Champlain and the English Flagship Warspite are to be expected here within five or six days. The Champlain will remain here for some time. Captain Evans refers to the assault of the Baltimore sailors as a dastardly outrage on American citizens, and says: "Had my men been assaulted I should have opened fire on Chi."

The Behring Sea Controversy.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The entire session of the Cabinet to-day was consumed in the consideration of the Behring sea question. Lord Salisbury's reply to Wharton's note insisting upon a renewal of the modus vivendi, forming the basis of the discussion. The utmost reticence was maintained by the members of the Cabinet, but it is believed that Salisbury's note was unsatisfactory. His reply to the main point was not decisive. There is also reason to believe that he suggests as a condition precedent to any modus vivendi that the United States should indemnify Canadian vessel owners in the event of a decision of the arbitrators being against the United States.

It is said a reply is now being prepared in which this Government will firmly stand by its former position.

Too Handy With a Gun.

SPOKANE, March 22.—Last night at Coosley City, in Grand Coulee, John Carley went into a restaurant and began to shoot around in a reckless manner. He was finally ejected. He then turned his gun into the building and fired a number more shots. Early this morning the result was found to be the death of Charles Pascoe, one of the pioneer residents of the town, who was found in the street with a bullet hole through his breast. It was also learned that another man named Patey was shot through the arm. Carley was a gambler of bad reputation. Several arrests have been. There is a great deal of indignation in town.

A Jury Ignores Instructions.

VISALIA, Cal., March 22.—Yesterday Walter James, a colored tomalo vendor, was arraigned in the Superior Court for criminally assaulting Clara Harrigan, a little girl. To-day the girl's parents testified that their daughter was over fourteen years old, the age of consent, before the grand jury. The mother stated that the girl was twelve. District Attorney Power moved to disamis the case and the jury was instructed to bring in a verdict of acquittal. The jury refused and is still out. Much indignation is expressed.

Fire in the Capitol.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—A fire occurred in the folding room of the House this evening and destroyed a large number of public documents. The office and corridors were flooded with water by the firemen and a dense smoke permeated the entire building. It took some time to clear the hall of smoke sufficiently to allow the proceedings of the evening session of the House to begin. The fire is attributed to carelessness on the part of some employe. The loss is about $15,000.

Cutting Rates.

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—All railroads are cutting and slashing rates to eastern points, particularly Missouri river points. Scalpers have large blocks of tickets and special agents are well supplied and there is a merry war of ticket scalping by and with the connivance of the transcontinental roads. Tickets are selling to Kansas City from $15 upwards. Tickets to New York are reduced all the way from $18 to $25. A rate war is imminent.

The Boyd Case.

LINCOLN, March 22.—The attorneys for Thayer filed a motion in the Supreme Court to-day for a reopening of the Boyd case for arguments March 29th.

Weather Forecast.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Forecast for the ensuing twenty-four hours for Nevada: Rain; slight temperature changes.

Parson Boles, the pastor of the church at Manning, Iowa, was holding revival services, a gasoline stove used to heat water for baptism exploded and the burning oil set fire to the Minister's celluloid cuff. In an instant his clothes were afire and his arms were burned in a frightful manner. The attending physicians say his injuries are fatal.

For Over Fifty Years.

WHAT IS

SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings, which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can IT BE CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of those cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous soreneck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. OAKLEY, Nauright, N. J.

OFFICERS:

BREVITIES.
Bargains in GARDEN HOSE at Lange & Schmitt's.
Mrs. J. R. Dixon, Jr., was reported very sick yesterday.
General R. M. Clarke came down from Carson last night.
Two hundred tons of good hay for sale. See advertisement.
W. C. Noteware of Carson came down on the V. & T. last night.
H. F. Dangberg, the Carson Valley farmer, went below last night.
O. Lonkey came down on the V. & T. last night and departed for Verdi.
Miss Flo Finlayson departed for San Francisco last night to join the Bostonians.
Lawn mowers, garden tools and paint and oils a specialty at Lange & Schmitt's.
Trees for the million at the Reno and Mount Hope Nurseries. See advertisement.
General Powning is completing his new cottage preparatory to occupying it with his family.
The weather is quite cool, and fires indoors and winter clothing out of doors, are in order in the evenings.
A Kansas man, one of the lazy kind, has applied for a divorce because his wife would no longer support him.
There were 5,946 cars of live stock received at Chicago last week, against 6,692 cars the corresponding week last year.
The Reno Lyceum of Friday evening will doubtless attract a crowded house, as a splendid program will be rendered.
The Glee Club will sing the opening song at the Lyceum Friday night. Their singing alone is worth all the price of admission.
S. Emrich of the Nevada Cash Dry Goods and Carpet House, went below last night to purchase a stock of Spring and Summer goods.
It is harvest time in the Argentine Republic and the wheat crop is so heavy that great difficulty is experienced in getting labor to gather it.
The new reservoir at Leavenworth, Kansas, burst one day last week and the bottom and 8,000,000 gallons of water dropped out of it.
The most severe storm of the season visited Massachusetts last Saturday and Sunday. The highways were blocked with snow, and travel was impossible.
Do not fail to hear Mr. R. L. Fulton's lecture on "American Characterizations" at the Lyceum Friday night. It will be something well worth listening to.
Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Marker of Lovelock left for home yesterday with their daughter, who has recovered from injuries sustained while riding a bucking horse.
If you want to see something German and classic and interesting see the German evening with Goethe under the direction of Prof. Cowgill at the Lyceum Friday night.
D. R. Davis, Superintendent of Construction for the Western Union Telegraph Co., who has been in Reno on business for the company, returned to San Francisco last night.
C. H. Spronle, editor of the Elko Independent, came down from Virginia last night, where he has been attending a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee, and proceeded on to Elko.
A midjet from Holland now on exhibition to Berlin discounts Tom Thumb, and is said to be the smallest man in the world. He is exactly twenty-four inches in height and twenty-four years of age.
Fourteen hundred and thirty-seven cars of live stock were received at Chicago Monday last, of which 785 cars were cattle, 602 cars hogs 50 cars sheep, averaging to the car respectively 19, 71 and 161 head.
The town of Franklin, Pa., is in the throes of a religious revival. There have been 500 conversions and interest is unabated. Business is neglected, the theaters are deserted, and the churches are crowded.
Shade and fruit trees of almost every variety adapted to this climate are being shipped from here daily North, South and East. Many orders from Sierra, Lassen, Modoc and Inyo counties, California, are filled here.
Annie Fish, a respectable and well connected lady of Santa Rosa, California, joined the Salvation Army and disappeared a week ago last Saturday, since which time she has not been seen or heard from. Her relatives have searched for her in vain.
Governor Flower of New York is proving that he has backbone. The Legislature passed a bill fixing the salaries of Brooklyn Aldermen at $2,000 a year which he vetoed on the ground that the Legislature should only grant permission to local authorities to fix salaries.
The apportionment of delegates to the Republican State Convention to be held at Virginia City, April 30, is as follows: Churchill, 2; Douglas, 5; Elko, 14; Esmeralda, 9; Eureka, 7; Humboldt, 6; Lander, 6; Lyon, 8; Nye, 8; Ormsby, 12; Storey, 30; Washoe, 18; White Pine, 5; Lincoln, 6.
The New York "400" is shaken to its foundation. The very cream of society, Mrs. Coleman Drayton, the daughter of William Astor, who is first on the list of McAlister's "150," is the principal figure in a very bad scandal case. It is believed that the Astor family will keep away from all festivities this season and that McAlister's "150" will be revised.

THE GERMAN LEGATION AT WASHINGTON.
Dr. Von Holleben, Newly Appointed Minister From Berlin.
Dr. Von Holleben was educated at Heidelberg and at Bonn. He is a doctor of laws, a linguist, a soldier and a skilled diplomat. Fifty years old or thereabout, he is still a bachelor and the subject of an extraordinary degree of interest on the part of the ladies, particularly so, as he is a handsome, courtly gentleman. For some years he was an officer in the Ministry of Justice at Berlin, and has served his country in a diplomatic capacity at Peking and Tokio, and at Buenos Ayres, to which he was sent as Minister in 1878. He was appointed Ambassador to Japan in 1886. Dr. Von Holleben is a great acquisition to society in the Federal Capital.

THE AIR LINE ROAD.
What the Pioche Record Suspects.
The Pioche Record suspects that there is "a coon in the Air Line woodpile." It says:
"With the Air Line railroad subsidy in his pocket, Hon. A. C. Cleveland of White Pine is canvassing San Francisco for subscriptions to the stock to build the road. How about this? Wouldn't it be as well to subsidize some other road that has the capital and desire to build across Nevada? and isn't that Air Line road a big S. P. scheme to tie up franchises and exclude competition?"
The Record is probably mistaken that the Air Line road is a Southern Pacific scheme to exclude competition. Mr. Cleveland is said to be at odds with the Southern Pacific people and the report is doubtless true. He surely would not pretend to be endeavoring to secure capital to build the Air Line, solely for the purpose of keeping other companies from building through the State, and deceiving the public. There are no grounds for such suspicion.

A Case of Burglary.
Yesterday morning Henry Morris arose and went out to the store house, which is back of his residence, having no connection therewith, to get some provisions for breakfast. Mr. Morris is a good fellow, as the expression goes, and always keeps a well-filled barrel, but on this occasion he found himself in the same position as Mother Hubbard when he went to get her dog a bone—the store house was bare. Some miscreants had been there during the night and carried off everything in the house in the way of eatables. Among the articles stolen were fourteen dozen eggs, four rolls of butter, all the fruit, jams and jellies which his wife had put up and some meat. Henry says he is thankful that the theft did not occur when eggs were worth fifty cents a dozen.

The World Enriched.
The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

The Lovelock correspondent of the Silver State says the discovery of a well defined vein of coal in the East Range, which is now being developed by P. K. Reid and his partners, is creating considerable excitement and promises to open up a new source of wealth for this already prolific mineral territory.

Walk One Way, Look Another.
You often see persons doing it, and many a poor fellow has stamped his toes or cracked his shins falling over some object. You call them fools, but it may be their brains are benumbed by a torpid liver. People suffering from indigestion and dyspepsia often get confused—the brain is inactive. You must wake up the liver by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator, the cure for this disorder and for Biliousness and Sick Headache.

Democratic Committee Meeting.
A meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee will be held at Reno, Saturday, April 23, at 12 m. for the purpose of designating a time and place for holding a State Convention, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

The Ruination of the Kentry.
"This here thing of wimmin in politics is the ruination of the kentry," said the man from Wyoming. "It's got so now that we can't even hev a lynchin' without decoratin' the rope with yellow ribbons an' sash."—Indianapolis Journal.

The News says the outlook for Eastern White Pine is very favorable. A ditch built to the Oesola gravel mines gives 1,500 more inches of water than heretofore and as no railroad is required to work placer mines, or market their products, the people are peaceful and contented amid prosperity and plenty.

The Official Report Shows the ROYAL to be a cream of tartar baking powder, superior to all others in leavening power (U. S. Dept. Agricult.).
Bulletin 13, p. 529.

New Style of Coon Hunting.
The inhabitants of the mountains west of this place are great coon hunters. Some nights ago Bill Benchoff and Colonel Yingling started out with half a dozen dogs and two boys to carry the pine torches. A coon was raised on the east side of the Monterey, and the dogs chased it down through a deep and rough ravine and up a rocky spur on the west. After a climb of an hour Benchoff and Yingling at last came up with the dogs. They had run the coon into a tree and were snarling and barking around underneath. The boys whirled the torches and Benchoff banged away at what he thought was the coon, but no animal tumbled.
Yingling in the meantime had been tearing paper and trying to ignite a match, but it was damp and would only splutter. Benchoff was deriding him when suddenly a great ball of fire illuminated space. Yingling had succeeded in igniting his match and was emptying a roman candle into the tree.
The first ball struck a branch and burst and the second hit the coon "plumb center." Its fur caught fire and with a yell it came rolling down among the angry dogs. The third ball revealed two more coons in the tree, and Benchoff's rifle dropped one, while Yingling, with the last ball in the candle, hit the limb on which the third coon clung with pitiful terror, and it lost its hold and tumbled into the mounds of the waiting dogs.
They got six more coons that night with the help of Yingling's candles, and now the coon regularly shoots the romans and Benchoff shoots the gun. They are the most successful coon hunters in all the region.—Gettysburg (Pa.) Sentinel.

A Frisky Kitten.
Sunday morning churchgoers on Reid avenue saw a crowd of boys surrounding the windows of the grocery store on upper Reid avenue. Impelled by curiosity to see what was going on those who approached the window witnessed within a scene of devastation. One large window of the store was filled with lamps, vases and crockery of every description, which are given away to purchasers of tea and other articles in the store. In this window the pedestrians saw a small kitten. He had been locked in the store over night, and had made his way into the window filled with crockery. It was terrible to behold the damage which had been done there. The boys outside had succeeded in making the kitten frolic around inside, and at each turn he made some article of crockery would fall with a crash.
Handsome lamps, vases, pitchers and numerous articles were broken to pieces by the antics of the frolicsome kitten, who seemed to be chuckling to himself at the damage he had done. When, finally, about three-quarters of the crockery in the window had been utterly destroyed, a policeman strayed along, and the crowd of boys were dispersed. The kitten then settled down in the midst of a mass of broken crockery and was soon asleep.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

The People Sort the Mail.
A curious state of affairs prevails in Nanticoke, Pa., a mining town of 11,000 inhabitants. Two-thirds of the population are foreigners, mostly Huns, Poles and Italians. Three months ago the free mail delivery system was inaugurated in the town. It has proven a failure. A great deal of foreign mail matter is received at the postoffice daily, but no streets or numbers are given. The letter carriers simply take a bag of mail and march through the town blowing a whistle.
The people turn out and the carrier allows them to examine the letters. In this way he delivers to owners. The people are honest enough, and will not take a letter that does not belong to them. The postoffice authorities at Washington, however, do not like the mode of delivery, and it is likely that the free delivery system will be discontinued.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Not the Grip.
There is a family in this city which lives in constant awe of the grip, and this fear is particularly centered on the small boy of the house, albeit he is a robust specimen of his age.
The other day the small boy sneezed. This was enough to alarm the entire household. He continued sneezing, and his mother suggested sending for the doctor, as she was sure he was going to be ill.
"Do you feel sick?" she asked tenderly.
"Do you think you are getting the grip?"
"Grip nothing!" ejaculated the small boy between paroxysms of sneezes. "I was washing my face and not soap up my nose—chew-schew!"
